Advanced Health Screening System

The Asyra Pro is the latest development of electro-dermal screening technology and leads the field in terms of value, practicality and clinical effectiveness.

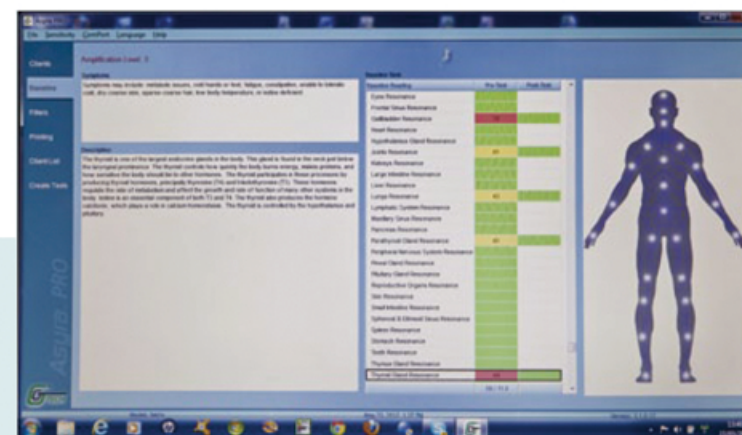

The Asyra Pro measures the body's response to signal outputs from the device by recording and analysing resulting changes in the electrical resistance of the skin.

"The Asyra delivers a picture of health status and how to improve it in moments."

By testing for thousands of nutritional factors, homeopathic remedies, cell salts, herbs, nosodes for bacteria, viruses, parasites, fungi and much more – the Asyra delivers a picture of health status and how to improve it in moments.

WHAT IS THE ASYRA?

The Asyra is a system designed for health practitioners with the following purposes:

- to provide insight and information about clients' health needs that cannot be obtained from case history, questioning or simple observation;
- to apply that information directly in support of healing and health creation by way of built-in 'informational' treatments;
- to assist the practitioner in recommending traditional therapies appropriate to the clients individual needs.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

The Asyra software contains digitally-encoded information relating to a wide range of health factors that is output by the Asyra hardware as electromagnetic signals during testing.

Using a simple low voltage circuit created by holding two brass cylinders or handmasses, the response of the body to those signals is recorded by measuring changes in the electrical resistance of the skin.

This information is relayed back to the software and a report is generated on the computer of any responses that are outside certain limits.

WHAT IS MEANT BY 'ENERGETIC' TESTING?

The functioning of the human body is governed by electrical and informational signals. When we obtain responses from a bioenergetic testing device, the information is a mixture of commentary on the physical, chemical, bioelectrical, emotional and mental state of the body/mind. Indeed, part of the skill of the practitioner of bioenergetic testing is to consider and interpret the information that comes from the system and to know how to proceed from there.

IS THE ASYRA A DIAGNOSTIC DEVICE?

In this sense Asyra testing does not diagnose. It presents a completely individualised set of responses at a specific point in time to the challenges that were included in the test. The information can often be used to help support a traditional diagnosis, but the main purpose is to inform an individualised treatment plan unique to that person.
